The Story of Light: Volume 2, Through Heaven's Gate by S. Roger Joyeux

Introduction

Light is here for everyone. It surrounds us and embraces us just the way we are. Light breathes life into our thoughts and schemes, and into our dreams. It gives us insight to the ways ahead and glimpses of the larger universe.

The Story of Light: Volume 1, Path to Enlightenment laid the foundation for the body of knowledge that explains how light works on Earth. Special emphasis was given to the etheric magnetic field because an understanding of the etheric field is key to understanding the movement of light. The etherics surround every form in the universe; and determine which frequencies are accepted and rejected into the body. Given that our Earthly mission is to bring forth the light to enlighten our selves, our environment, and our planet, working with the etherics pervades every action we perform.

The 'Path to Enlightenment' illuminates humanity's effort to achieve spiritual enlightenment. Realizing the contribution of the chakras as part of the process takes the reader through the history of chakras and exposes the extreme density that has plagued the Earth's physical presence since the beginning of time. Density is real on our dimension, but it is not something that the vanguard of the angelic realms readily understood upon arrival so long ago. We, collectively—the incarnate and discarnate light-workers, learned and innovated to achieve the level of enlightenment that we currently enjoy. We are near the completion of our mission. There is more, however, to realize, to know, and to achieve. Hence, Volume Two.

The Story of Light: Volume 2, Through Heaven's Gate rests upon the foundation of Volume One and takes the story considerably further. It starts with the angelic realms by introducing some of the entities and specialized cadres of lightworkers that have contributed to Earth's journey. Because these lightworkers learned about the darkness only after entering the void, the void is the next topic. Understanding the void and the darkness must precede the discussion about negativity, which is the start of creation's march into form and light. Negativity needs illumination, just as the vibration of black light frequencies needed illumination in Volume One.

From the void to enlightenment is a truly long journey. Volume One discussed some of the innovations used to bring light to Earth. Perhaps the most tragic innovation discussed in Volume Two is the fate that befell Lucifer in what I am calling the 'Doomed Experiment'. Although a whole chapter is devoted to what happened to Lucifer, Volume Two is not about fallen angels; it is about light. So, one of the early explanations in Volume Two is that of the composition of light frequencies. What are its characteristics? Why does a light frequency behave the way it does? Understanding where light goes and where it cannot go is determined by the Godhead. Where does God extend its vibration or withhold it?

God leads, and we contribute!

Light moves from the Godhead outward and descends into the lower dimensions and onto the Earth by many means. There are many blockages to light. Individuals continue to add to the roster of innovations that make light possible on Earth. Our minds, our will, and our consciousness contribute to the process. The angels help us. We help them. Light moves into our sphere. On Earth, creation starts with the 'primal construct unit', which is the basis of our physical world. Four chapters are devoted to just these aspects of light construction, manipulation, and movement as a prelude to how light works with our Solar System on the physical plane.

Volume Two takes you to the core of God's creation by painting the picture of the essence of existence in the heavens and on Earth. From the core, light finds its way through the upper heavens onto the physical plane. The Sun and stars play a unique role. What exactly are the Sun and stars?

Introduction

If what we see is a ball of light, is there more to see? Yes, there is more to see and to learn about these topics in Volume Two.

While each of the planets and the Sun play specific roles within our Solar System, I am compelled to offer a salute to Mars. Life on the physical plane began with Mars. The interesting story here involves putting the effort into context. Even more interesting is the role that lies ahead for Venus. What will it mean for a planet that has a surface temperature of 600° to participate in the quest to bring consciousness to the physical dimension? For illumination on these topics see chapter 11, but only after reading about the interaction between the heavens and our Solar System in chapter 10.

What are light stations? Volume Two explains the innovation of the 'light station.' The information about light stations needs its own chapter—Chapter 12. Another subject that needs its own chapter is the involvement of the soul and the innovations that the soul often uses to help with our evolution.

Light eventually does come to Earth after it exits the Godhead, traverses the vastness of the heavens, finds its way into our Solar System, and enters the Earth's space. Once here, how can we use it? The 'Body of Mind Consciousness' and the 'Emotional Body' are two aspects of humanity's contribution that greatly facilitate the use and movement of light. These subtle bodies belong to us. Are we clear on how they operate? How do you create thought and why is one person's thoughts so different from another's? Why do we have such difficulty in controlling emotions; and why can we not shut them down at will? The answers await your discovery.

The discussion then moves into the more refined ways of moving light—contemplation, light storage, meditation, will, group consciousness, and more. Have you ever thought that boredom contributes to enlightenment? It does! Have you ever thought of the hockey arena as a place for light empowerment? Read on!

The last three chapters work through the divine plan, the nature of the Godhead and the ascension. We came to bring light to Earth and now our job is near completion. The divine plan has been our road map. What does the map look like? Volcanoes and Earthquakes are part of the divine plan and, yes, the will and desire can change the plan. Change, however, can and has always been measured. See the section entitled, “Schedule of Evolution”, in chapter 18 to see what measurement means. We are in God’s image. What Volume Two says about what else is in God’s image remains to be discovered?

Finally, what happens when we ascend? Misconceptions about the ascension abound. For example, is the ascension a simple case of elevating our vibration into the fifth dimension? After all this time spent working towards the enlightenment of Earth, why would we want to stop only two dimensions above the dimension we are already on? At best, the fifth dimension is a concept that our third dimensional mind uses in its attempt to understand the heavens. For a second example, is there a thought that ‘you’ will ascend, or that all humanity will ascend. There will be an ascension. Who ascends, who stays? See Chapter 20 for the answers.

The Story of Light: Volume 2, Through Heaven’s Gate shows the way—the way home, but also the way here. We are graduating from our experience on the third dimension. We have brought light to this outpost—Earth. Our long journey is near complete and we will soon be going home. When we do, we can be confident that we did our part. The enlightened universe has changed because we have contributed to the realization of enlightenment on the physical plane. Forevermore, our beingness on higher planes will have the capacity to extend its life force into physical form without having to meet the obligation of a contract to stay beyond the whim of the will or to go through the birth-life-death cycle of incarnation. We have earned the right and acquired the ability to manifest into and out of physical form by choice.

May you enjoy the discovery that awaits you in The Story of Light: Volume 2, Through Heaven’s Gate.

With love and light
